

Reparation Crusade Against MET's Sacrilegious Exhibit

Faithful Catholics will converge in front of the MET to do reparation for the sacrilegious MET Gala and "Heavenly Bodies" exhibit that mocks the Blessed Virgin and the Catholic Church.

Tragically, Cardinal Dolan attended the MET Gala which inaugurated it alongside scantily clad celebrities known for their impure lifestyles and part of the exhibit displays vestments and sacred objects on loan from the Vatican.

Please join us for a peaceful and prayerful Rosary, as we pray in reparation for this gross affront against God, Catholic Morality, and Holy Mother Church.

When: Saturday, June 9th
at 12 Noon
(Memorial of the Immaculate Heart of Our Lady)

Where: In front of the Metropolitan Museum of Art,
Manhattan
1000 5th Ave (at 82nd St)

"Fashions that will greatly offend Our Lord will appear.
People who serve God should not follow fashions."
-Jacinta Marto, Fatima seer

Curated by an open homosexual, the blasphemous "Heavenly Bodies" exhibit features:*

1. a sexual bondage mask draped in Rosary beads;
2. transparent women's dresses modeled after clerical attire worn by bishops and priests;
3. a very short skirt with a sleeveless and shoulderless top and an icon of Our Lady;
4. a dress depicting a scene of Adam and Eve naked and a transparent top;
5. a "cardinal's robe" with a scandalously low neckline.
